

AMERICANS CAPTURE MUNDA FROM JAPANESE

The War
Today...By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

OLD Marshal Badoglio is attempting some mighty risky juggling with the throne of Italy in his efforts to divert at one and the same time the attention of the Allies, who demand unconditional surrender forthwith, and the Germans, who are said to threaten reprisals if he throws up the sponge.

The Italian public wants peace. Fiery demonstrations in many sections of the country show that the people are in that frame of mind which bodes no good for anyone who stands between them and the return to normal for which they so long have yearned. The fact that Badoglio is keeping the lid on by a vigorous display of force doesn't alter that fact.

Now it was King Vittorio Emanuele who, willingly or otherwise, named Badoglio chief of state, with dictatorial powers, when Mussolini collapsed the other day. That inevitably must link the little monarch in the minds of his subjects with any fresh misfortune which may come to them because of the marshal's failure to accept the Allied terms, thus inviting bombing and invasion.

Badoglio may see the writing on the wall and surrender. If he persists in playing the Hitlerian games, however, and so condemns his unfortunate country to the horrors of further war, he may precipitate an ultimate political change with far reaching consequences.

Badoglio or no Badoglio, the Allies are going to take over Italy. Then in due course, when the fires of war have died away in Europe, the people of the country will be permitted to choose the form of government under which they wish to live—so long as it isn't Fascist or Nazi. The United Nations have promised this to the Axis countries.

Will the people want to retain a king who contributed to their suffering? Will they even want to keep the monarchy?

Only time can answer those momentous questions. However, we are bound to note that during the recent days of crisis, political elements in various parts of the country have been demonstrating in favor of other forms of government.

AMONG the demonstrators are said to be Communists. One would indeed be short of memory to forget that Mussolini pounded Fascism for the avowed purpose of uprooting Bolshevism in Italy, and one would be shortsighted not to see that Communism has taken on strength from the great victories of the Red army.

Emanuele fell in public esteem after Mussolini came to power. Since the war, however, he has turned to WAR TODAY, Page 8

Kilnmen at Two Other Newell Plants Threaten To Leave Jobs

(By Associated Press) EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 6.—Two Newell, W. Va., potteries were notified that their kiln workers intended to strike late today in sympathy with AFL unionists at the Homer Laughlin China Co., which shut down after a five-day production curtailment.

Officials of the Taylor, Smith and Taylor Co. and the Edwin M. Knowles Co. said kilnmen affiliated with the AFL National Brotherhood of Operative Potters declared their intentions to walk out at 3 p. m.

Joseph M. Wells, general manager of the Laughlin company, said the plant's 3,000 employees were unable to continue work, because of the stoppage in the kiln department.

The AFL Potters union president, James M. Duffy, termed the walk-out an "illegal and outlaw strike" and suspended the local at the Laughlin company after it rejected a back-to-work order.

Pottery plants in East Liverpool have not been affected by the Newell dispute, which Duffy said involved seniority regulations.

The strike began Monday when 200 kilnmen at Laughlin walked out and were joined by 300 other sympathetic unionists at the company.

Red Army Rolls Through
New Gaps After Orel.
Belgorod Capture

(By Associated Press) MOSCOW, Aug. 6.—Germany's entire eastern front was threatened with collapse today as the Red army rolled through gaps made by the capture of Orel and Belgorod in the first great Russian summer offensive of the war.

The Red army's new objectives appeared to be Bryansk and Kharkov. Russian troops pressing south from Belgorod were less than 45 miles from Kharkov while in the north the Russian rams pushing through Orel were about 75 miles from Bryansk.

The Kharkov salient now bulges out in the German line and the Nazi garrison there is in the same position as their cohorts at Orel before they gave up the city.

Moscow Jubilant

Moscow was in a holiday mood for the first time in the war over the twin victories.

Front line dispatches gave details of the Russian triumph, which was greeted in Moscow with the first gun salute of the war and an announcement by Premier Joseph Stalin that the victories dispelled "the legend of the Germans that the Soviet troops are allegedly unable to wage a successful offensive in the summer time."

Even as details of capture of the two cities reached the capital, the Red army pushed on in its great offensive against desperate rear guard action.

No estimate of the size of the enemy forces involved in the Orel salient was available, but presumably a considerable number escaped through a gap along and between the roads running from Orel west to Bryansk and southwest to Kharkov.

The German position at Kharkov appeared equally difficult, with the northern flank attacked by the Red army pushing west of Kupiansk.

Dispatches said the Germans carried out methodical demolition of Orel before the Red army's entry, even cutting the railroad tracks at intervals of every two or three yards. Only the walls remained of the railroad station.

ARRANGING SECOND
'TOWN HALL' SERIES

Meetings Free to Public, Committee Decides To Open In October

Salem will have another series of Town Hall meetings open to the public during the coming fall and winter season.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the general committee which arranged the first season's meetings last winter, held last night in the Memorial building.

Preliminary plans were made to book speakers of national and international note, so the best available may be brought to Salem. The opening meeting probably will be in October.

As the committee decided the meetings should be free to the public, success of the program now depends upon financial contributions. Gene Young was appointed chairman of a committee to solicit these contributions.

These Town Hall meetings were made possible last season by the contribution of $500 by Brooks Emery of Cleveland, formerly of Salem, to which fund were added local contributions. Emery has donated $250 to the second season's fund.

The committee last night re-elected Ralph Hawley chairman.

Unrest In Italy Is Fanned
By Popular Cries For Peace

(By Associated Press) BERN, Switzerland, Aug. 6.—Failure of the new Italian government to give any outward signs that it is seeking peace renewed the unrest of the Italian people today—an unrest accentuated by news of the fall of Catania, Orel and Belgorod.

The Milan correspondent of the Zurich Die Tat reported yesterday's cabinet session had aroused tremendous interest among the Italian people, "all of whom expected Premier Badoglio to report on the dramatic situation in Italy and his wish for peace."

"Everyone is talking of peace these decisive hours and the possibility of reestablishing Italy's honor," the correspondent wrote. He added that the Allied conquests of Orel and Catania "caused an enormous sensation. The people asked each other 'how can Badoglio still hesitate?'"

The cabinet, however, gave no sign Badoglio was seeking peace. The announced result of the long session was the enactment of a series of measures continuing the destruction of the Fascist party structure, revising methods of administering the country's penal code, abolishing racial laws and instituting severe controls of the press for the duration of the war.

Despite the injuries, he was inducted into the Army here.

AXIS PUSHED BACK TOWARD SICILIAN TIP

Allies Advance Several Miles as Enemy Falls
Back Toward Messina

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 6.—U. S. troops have plunged forward two to three miles on the north coastal road to Messina, and in the central sector of Sicily have seized Gagliano in a steady rollback of Germans west of Mt. Etna, an Allied communique announced today.

The Allied aerial torpedo meanwhile reached a new climax as Flying Fortresses bludgeoned Messina, the last big Axis escape hatch to the mainland, and air and naval forces continued to blast open the path on the north coast.

British and Canadian troops in the center smashed ahead toward Aderno in "steady progress" forward of Centuripe and Regalbuto, headquarters said, but the Germans are resisting fiercely.

Gagliano lies back of a line between Trina, taken by Americans, and Regalbuto which was seized by Canadians. Its fall helps straighten the Allied line and further endangers the German defense shielding withdrawal of large Axis forces from the south and central areas of Sicily.

The communique said a British Eighth army brigade accepted unconditional surrender of Catania, the east coast seaport and anchor of the Etna line, at 10:15 a. m. yesterday, and the British then swept northwest to take Misterbianco and cross the Simeto river to Paterno 10 miles away.

Bomb Messina From Air

Other British eighth army units were smashing ahead north up the east coast toward Taormina and Messina 55 miles away.

On the north coast the Americans are threatening San Fratello and late reports put them within two miles of that road junction, whose capture would cut the last lateral roads still in enemy hands.

The Flying Fortress assault upon Messina marked the first time in many weeks that the Allies' heaviest air weapon has been used against that badly battered Sicilian target.

Wellingtons blasted the beaches near Messina and a follow-up raid during the night, to disrupt German supply efforts and the evacuation of non-essential personnel reported underway for about a week.

Swarms of medium bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters continued to fill the sky over the dwindling enemy bridgehead, roving unopposed over roads and railroads, hurling steel into troop convoys and blasting the towns of Aderno, Francavilla and other key points of the German defense system.

In his new capacity, Colley's first task will be to organize and conduct the third War Bond drive, scheduled to get under way Sept. 9. The U. S. Treasury department has set 15 billion dollars as the goal for this drive, compared with the 13 billion goal for the April campaign. In the September drive the banks will not subscribe to the fund as has been the case in the first two drives.

SWEDEN AIMS
BLOW AT NAZIS

Government Bars Transit
Facilities to German Troops, Materiel

(By Associated Press) STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6.—The Swedish public demonstrated pleasure today at the decision by the government of King Gustaf V to bar Sweden's transit facilities to German troops and war materiel.

The average Swede never approved of the Nazi transit traffic between Germany and Norway and Finland through Sweden. It was accepted by the government as an expedient measure when war threatened the unprepared nation in 1940.

Now the Swedes are better prepared militarily than at any time in their history, with a well-equipped and superbly trained army of 400,000 men and coastal and other defenses on 24-hour alert for any eventuality.

No reprisals have been indicated or threatened by the Nazis for the decision to stop the transport of German war materiel across Sweden Aug. 15 and to halt the movement of troops Aug. 20.

For Sweden, the drastic step lifted a heavy burden from her neutrality policy; for Germany it will force further use of the perilous North sea route to Norway and it also added materially to the problem of supplying Nazi troops in Finland.

New encouragement was provided the loyal population of Norway, who have already reported the morale of the German occupational forces ebbing dangerously.

The growing possibility of an Allied invasion of Norway and the U. S. Flying Fortress raids upon German objectives there July 24 brought to a head Swedish public demands that the traffic be ended.

TROOPS ROUT ENEMY AFTER BITTER FIGHT

Occupation Comes Within 32 Days After Establishment of Beachhead

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 6.—American ground troops completed the occupation of Munda today, just 32 days after a beachhead was secured on New Georgia island and five weeks after U. S. invasion forces landed on the neighboring island of Rendova, June 30.

A special communique issued tonight from General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters gave few details of the final assaults which crushed the enemy's stubborn but hopeless stand.

But preliminary announcement that 1,671 Japanese dead already had been counted testified to the bitterness of the struggle for the 4,000-foot long airfield and protecting fortifications built by the Japanese since they occupied New Georgia on year ago. Since that time Munda had become the core of Japanese defenses in the Central Solomons.

Activity of the battle-hardened American troops is now limited to mopping up operations.

Enemy Resistance Ceases

A special communique said: "Munda is now in our hands. All organized enemy resistance has ceased. Action is now limited to destruction of isolated enemy groups; 1671 enemy dead have already been collected."

Hundreds of the enemy already had been slain by U. S. infantrymen advancing on their foxholes and coral caves with flame throwers.

The Japanese airstrip has been subjected to one of the fiercest aerial poundings of the Pacific war. To help soften its defenses U. S. naval forces bombarded the base in the heart of one occasion. Tanks and mortars were brought up for the assault after enemy resistance stiffened perceptibly within 2,100 yards of the field itself.

Munda's capture placed the United States airforce within fighter plane range of the big Japanese feeder base of Rabaul, 450 miles to the northwest. Its possession by American forces will weaken the importance of such intervening Japanese bases as the Kahili airfield of South Bougainville, the Buna-Faisi shipping center, and the big supply depot of Vila, Kolombangara.

Hints of New Operation

At the same time Lieut. Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift hinted at new Allied sea-borne operations against Japan in the Southwest Pacific.

"The amphibious corps is ready for action," General Vandegrift told correspondents at an advanced South Pacific base.

Munda was the enemy's key base in the heart of the 600-mile-long Solomon archipelago and its capture marked a major stride in the Allied campaign of reconquest pointed toward the Philippines.

Surprise Air Raid
Tests Are Planned

(By United Press) COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—State Defense Director Ralph H. Stone said today surprise zone blackout tests might be conducted this month in the three areas in Ohio designated by the Army as air raid warning zones.

He said the zone tests would be followed later this summer by a complete state-wide blackout. Stone explained that the Army, for defense purposes, had divided the state into three zones, namely: A, the northern section; B, the central section, and C, the southern section.

He said this division was based on the theory attacking planes probably would approach from the north. The state would be blacked out according to the depth of penetration by enemy raiders. A statewide blackout, he explained, probably would begin in the northern section and move south progressively.

TAXES AREN'T THEORY

Taxation is perhaps the most complicated of all the simple subjects. No one has anything but sympathy for the congressmen who are supposed to take the treasury's estimates of need and national capacity to pay and blend them into a tax law that will be completely satisfactory.

Of course, it can't be done, and the congressmen know it. Even without partisan politics and vote-codding, it couldn't be done—and in the face of the forthcoming presidential and congressional election they will be stronger influences than ever. It is a dark prospect.

But congressmen are plunging ahead. Treasury experts are plunging ahead. Taxpayers are plunging ahead. Taxation is being tackled as a wartime necessity. As Rep. Doughton, chairman of the house ways and means committee, sees it the job is not only to produce revenue but to restrain the forces of inflation.

It is reassuring to hear Rep. Doughton, Sen. George, Sen. Hatch and even one treasury spokesman, Stanley S. Surrey, expressing concern over the special problem of citizens with fixed earning power being ground between the upper and nether millstones of rising taxes and prices. Their plight does not show up in the statistics commonly used to support tax theories. Like many corporations caught by corporate tax laws based on averages, they are victims of the classical folly of killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. A tax law which aims to produce revenue and restrain inflation must be aimed not at gross income, but at war-created income.

THE CASE OF JOHN BOVINGDON

John Bovington, the economist fired from office of economic warfare by Leo T. Crowley, its new director, may leave a bigger ripple on the pond of oblivion as he disappears into it than he realizes.

Mr. Bovington, who stood accused by the Dies committee of such traits as ballet dancing and association at one time or another with radicals, has not been defended by his superior. Hence the size of the ripple.

In other instances of federal jobholders put on the pan by Dies committee accusations and notably in the case of certain jobholders in federal communications commission specifically excluded from employment after a certain date by what President Roosevelt has called a congressional "bill of attainder," the executive branch has refused to accept either the word or the spirit of criticism from any legislative source.

Director Crowley, in contrast, wasted no time in interviewing Mr. Bovington and arranging for his immediate departure from OEW. The import of this promptness will not be overlooked by other jobholders, by legislators and by officials of the executive department. Mr. Crowley has made an abrupt departure from the New Deal line on supreme authority over the swelling federal bureaucracy. He has said to congress in effect that he makes no blanket defense for every person who has become attached to the federal payroll under New Deal auspices. It's hard on John Bovington, but it may ease the battle of Washington tremendously.

NAVAL ARTILLERY

One of many old lessons taught in new form by this war is the function of naval artillery, currently being demonstrated in the battle of Sicily and joint land and naval operations in the Pacific.

In these operations, battleships—which are sea-going big-gun carriers, armored like tanks in some cases and designed only for mobility in others—cases are shelling land installations at long range.

While the high adventure of naval warfare inevitably becomes the battles between navies, the high purpose of the ships bearing the heavy guns is divided between destruction of other ships and destruction of targets on lands. Even today, with all the changes made in warfare by planes, submarines and new types of naval craft, there is no strategic concept more formidable than that of a dreadnaught standing offshore and pumping its heavy ammunition into a city, or some fortified point on land.

As the navy goes to work on one of the jobs it was designed to do, there may not be the novelty that still attends the routine operation of bombing plane. The result is no less important in determining the outcome of a war that never would have been started if Germany, Italy and Japan had not underestimated the strength of Anglo-American naval power. Its ability to withstand the Axis challenge and to fling back the challenge with redoubled vigor has been the most decisive factor in the growing Allied offensive.

OREL AFTER STALINGRAD

On the war map, Orel is just another Russian city at the head of a bulge in the German line running north and south through western Russia. Its recapture by the Russians flattens the bulge.

But to the Germans retreating from the city and to the Russians entering it, Orel has become a turning point in the war—a successor to Stalingrad, where Russia took its stand and refused to withdraw further, its greatest triumph of defense.

Orel is to be the Russian triumph of offense—Orel, the point chosen by Hitler and his generals for their 1943 summer offensive, the point where the German offensive was turned back on itself, where Russia itself took the initiative in summer fighting, where it was revealed that in 1943 Germany no longer has the strength to overpower the army it must overpower to avert defeat.

The Russians are frankly and honestly jubilant about what is happening in the Orel sector. To them it has become the symbol of the war's turning point in their favor, the tell-tale test of strength at the end of more than two years of death-locked struggle on the front which Germany chose to create in June, 1941. In August, 1943, the Germans are giving ground, not gaining it. They are growing weaker, Russia is growing stronger.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, August 7

STABILITY, poise and common sense should be faithfully applied, this day, to putting on a firm and enduring basis the windfalls, graces and fertile fulfillments that should have been precipitated and earned during immediately preceding periods. Such fruition comes as rewards of merit, labor and high purpose, and not fortuitously or by chance "fate." The present task is to solidify, expand, crystallize and establish for permanency and security.

Those whose birthday it is should apply themselves diligently and sensibly to pleasing recent culmination of good fortune and proven worth and responsibility by past performances, by seeking security and increasing and enduring stability. System, attention to details, tying up loose ends, perhaps wrestling with some upsetting or surprising developments may be in order. Sound ideas, programs and policies need not eliminate incidental fun, celebration, or romance. Others may offer wise counsel which may be confidently sought, but with discretion.

A child born on this day may have stability and dependability of character, with proper qualities for wisely managing and increasing a probable inheritance or gift.

After the war, millions of hardened and brutalized young men will be still eager to exert their terror against any German who tries to cooperate loyalty with the rest of the world. Moreover, the active part of the German people with few exceptions are with Hitler—Dr. F. W. Foerster, expatriated German educator.

The chief culprits are Hitler, who said "I release man from the humiliating myth that is called conscience," and Goering, who said, "Kill! Kill anyone who is against us! I take the responsibility."—Moscow state prosecutor.

Now I realize what a sap I was when I used to take off for weekends and not take my job seriously in making shells and cylinders.—Former steel worker, now with North Africa forces, writing to former boss at home.

The best way to keep the peace is by keeping our enemies permanently disarmed and by being fully armed ourselves.—Sen. Chapman Revercomb, of West Virginia.

We note by a news dispatch that there is a shortage of $10,000 bills. We're positively certain that is correct with regard to our pockets and wallet.

CORSICA LOOMS AS U. S. AIR BASE

THE ISLAND OF CORSICA, taken from the French by the Axis, will make an excellent base for Allied air operations against northern Italy should the Germans set up a defense line along the River Po. Sardinia would have to be taken before Corsica could be occupied and used for that purpose, but Allied bombers taking off there (1) would fly only 200 miles to Turin (2), Milan and the Po. Brenner Pass (3) is only 320 miles northeast from Corsica and planes heading there could carry heavy bomb loads. (International)

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Athlete's Heart and the Army

WHAT IS the chief cause for rejection in the military service? "Trouble with the heart and circulatory system," according to Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The Selective Service Board's official statement. Does this mean that in the United States our young men are breaking down from heart disease which attacks, or is supposed to attack, only old men? I do not believe this is a logical conclusion. In the first place, the actual number of men rejected for this reason is small. In the second place, the disease which causes as large a number of heart diseases as old age, rheumatic fever, is a disease of youth, and there is always a large group of young people in any heart clinic.

And finally, our Selective Service Boards are being far more critical than the boards in England, where many of our rejectees would be accepted. Physical Work and the Heart. As a matter of fact a number of these bad, organically diseased hearts stand up very well in war service. "Physical work and exercise do not cause heart disease," says Dr. Paul White, of Boston, one of the leading American authorities.

What then of the athlete's heart of which we used to hear so much? Strictly speaking, an athlete's heart is one that is enlarged or otherwise injured or strained by the athletic work he has been doing. And according to everyone who has investigated the subject, there isn't such animal.

Many athletes do grueling track work or competitive work with hearts that are badly damaged by previous disease, not by athletics. A doctor began examining track athletes and in a short time had accumulated these cases: A 37-year-old man played 36 holes of golf a day on hilly courses and won two cups. He played as many as 50 match games of bowling at one time, after he had played the 36 holes of golf. His heart was greatly enlarged in every direction; he had a murmur, but neither of these was due to the exercise. He had a history of rheumatic fever in childhood, and the doctor who attended him then said his heart was enlarged and he had a murmur when he was 12 years old.

Causes of Enlarged Heart. In Ohio's largest city school system, after a competitive contest, a surprised 18-year-old boy who had just completed a race was found to have a marked case of valvular heart disease. He had not been discomfited by it in the least. Some athletes have large, some small hearts, but it wasn't the athletics that made them small or large. In examining 233 supposedly normal athletes, Dr. J. W. Wilce found only 29 who had exactly normal hearts as to size, according to the ideal measurements laid down.

What breaks a heart down then? Re-infection with rheumatism or new infection with influenza or pneumonia; and advancing age with hardening of the small blood vessels of the heart. These most frequently. Not athletics or work or having babies.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

Still, show schedules were always delayed. Ann remembered how she'd used to wait around with her father for hours on end. "Late or not," she decided, "I need a cup of tea or I'll disgrace myself by fainting."

She approached a long table, laden with sandwiches and cakes. She heard a debutante-looking girl with a red steward's badge pinned to her dress say to a rather seedy-looking man with a brace of dogs on a leash, "I don't know whether there are any dishes for dogs to drink from, but Mrs. Wain is coming over now and I'll ask her."

Ann's vision blurred as Brenda approached. In her wildest imagination, she hadn't dreamed that anyone to whom Christopher had been married would look like this. Yes, she was beautiful, in a willowy sort of way, and tugged out like an English heroine at a garden party, even to a hat that threatened to become a parachute at the least gust of wind. "My dear," she cried, "It's all over! We've won!"

A little group gathered about her. The man with the brace of dogs concluded that he could find here no facilities for quenching canine thirst, and wandered away. Ann moved a little closer to the tinkling voice.

She was quite aware of her brazen eavesdropping, but it was beyond her strength to pull herself away. "Christopher was just like an excited little boy in the ring," Brenda held forth. "It was too thrilling when the judge finally came over and gave Gretel the ribbon. Gretel is Christopher's new American bred dog, you know—the first one he's ever bought here. But with Germany—Brenda's voice trailed off expressively."

Ann felt for a chair. It was like reading a telegram; you get the bad news the second time you go over it. The information trickled slowly into her consciousness with the echo of Brenda's words. Rowdy had lost!

The show lost its excitement, its urgency. As in a fog, she heard one of the women say, "Brenda darling, why this sudden interest in dogs? You sound like a professional!"

Someone else laughed.

Ann felt sick. The teacup rattled on the saucer. She got to her feet. She had only one desire; to get as far away from Crestview as she could. It had been an insane impulse; to come here in the first place.

A hand caught at her arm as she made her way toward the gate. "Say, look who's here, will you Carol?"

She turned to see Paul Freund and his wife smiling at her. "Oh, hello," she said as cheerily as she could.

"Hello yourself!" said Paul. "Thought you were home in bed with a trained nurse!"

"I am," Ann assured him earnestly. "Please don't stop for a minute think I'm not, or tell anyone else that I'm not."

"You ought to be spanked," chided Carol. "Honestly, that's terrible! You look as white as a ghost."

Carol didn't look any too well herself. Ann thought fleetingly. She was much too thin.

Ann nodded.

"Tough break," Paul agreed. "Well, that's dog business. You lose today and win tomorrow. She's a swell pup anyway. Listen, he broke off, "I'm going to put you in your car, and no nonsense! Carol's right. You're ill."

Back at Broadfields, Ann toppled into bed—grateful to be there, grateful to have gotten there before Miss Drew returned from seeing her little niece sit on a crumple or whatever it was that little Miss Muffet sat on.

Miss Drew immediately discerned the shadows beneath her patient's eyes, but she decided that the first few days out of bed were always fatiguing. Ann gathered that Emma, true to promise extracted, would not tell.

Ann must have dozed off into a long nap, because when she awakened to the crunch of gravel as a car drove up the drive, it was quite dark. Then there was the yapping of dogs, and Christopher's firm tread along the flagged path to the house.

She was tempted to play possum and pretend to be asleep; but instead she called, "Come in," in answer to a light knock on her door. In the dark, "Turn up the lights," there was a rush of dog to her side—dog that smelled of fragrant brillantine. She put her hand out she invited Christopher.

"You look fagged," he observed. "Fagged, nothing! Just the strain of having my dog to a show."

"Well," he told her robustly, "the best medicine in the world for anybody is a dose of good news." He whipped a large blue ribbon out of his pocket. "While you lay here sulking all day, look what your dog went and did."

"You mean she won?" She bit at her tongue to keep from contradicting him, which would only have let the cat out of the bag.

"The ribbon speaks for itself," he offered with modest duplicity.

"It doesn't speak loud enough. I want to hear more," she said maliciously.

"Well, she won."

Ann sat up, and reached for her comb and compact.

"That says something, but not enough. What kind of a win was it? Did she have any competition? Was she alone in her class?"

"Of course, not."

"You mean she beat Gretel?"

Ann was determined to show him no mercy.

"Beat her to a frazzle," he insisted manfully.

"Well, I knew she would. She's the better dog."

Christopher fidgeted with his cigarette lighter. Ann reserved her sharpest barb for the end.

"I want to say this for you," she forced magnanimity into her voice. "You're a swell loser. If my dog were beaten, I only wish that I could take it as well as you do."

"Oh, you lose today—"

"I know," she took up glibly, "and you win tomorrow."

"At that," he countered, "a little dubiously, "you don't seem very excited over the ribbon."

"Well, frankly I'm not," she told him. "Of course it would have been exciting to have been there, but it was, after all, rather small fry. I'm out for bigger things. With this win behind me, I'm entering her in the Morris and Essex."

"You're what?" he expostulated.

"Entering Rowdy in the Morris and Essex," she repeated.

"Oh, come now, you've never been to the Morris and Essex. That's a stiff howl, out of Rowdy's class. She's only a pup. You mustn't do that."

"Why not? Aren't you going to enter Gretel?"

"I might," he acknowledged.

"Well, then?"

"Look here," he said, a little desperately, "you've talked enough."

"I think," said Ann grimly, "that I'll have to change my mind. You're not a good loser at all."

Christopher looked so upset that she didn't know whether to cry or giggle. It was all she could do not to put her arms around him and give him a hug. But at the same time she had no intention of letting him spoof her with that blue ribbon yarn . . .

"You mustn't talk with a thermometer in your mouth," Miss Drew reproved. "However, it's been in two minutes," she conceded, glancing at her watch. "You can take it out now."

She squinted at the little glass stick, and professionally, said nothing.

Ann asked, "What would you do if I died?"

"Why Miss Rivers, what a perfectly dreadful question! It makes my blood run cold!"

"No, but really."

"Why, I—" Miss Drew faltered. "I'd have nothing more to do here—"

"Very well, consider me dead," Ann announced, and swung her legs out of bed. "In other words, I'm

M. P. WARNS PILOTS OF 'BIKE' DANGERS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The War department came up today with this tidbit from headquarters of the United States Army Eighth Air Force:

Two sergeant-guns on a Flying Fortress decided to relax with an evening in town after returning from a bombing mission to Kiel, Germany, during which they participated in a fierce air battle.

Their only means of transportation was one bicycle, so taff Sgt. Joseph E. Cronwall of Euphrata, Wash., gave his friend, Staff Sgt. Richard S. Davitt of Steubenville, O., (reported missing in action since July 14) a ride on the handlebars. As they entered the local village a military policeman stopped them.

"You'll have to get off those handlebars and walk," said the M. P.

"Why?" asked the two aerial gunners.

"Too dangerous," replied the M. P.

Harold Lloyd Narrowly Escapes Death In Fire

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Aug. 6.—Fire, instrumental in launching Harold Lloyd's acting career as a youth, nearly cost his life 37 years later.

Lloyd, now a motion picture producer, narrowly missed death yesterday when flames, following an explosion, swept through a storage vault on his elaborate estate, destroying many of the early-day comedy films through which he achieved fame.

The 49-year-old Lloyd and seven firemen were overcome by fumes from burning film and from swimming pool chlorinating compound released by the blast, but none was seriously affected. Lloyd collapsed at the door of the film vault, just as his wife, the former actress Mildred Davis, reached his side. She dragged him to safety. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Agree To Payment Of Mahoning Bills

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—State Auditor Joseph Ferguson said today that he and Attorney General Thomas E. Herbert had reached an agreement which would lead to payment of bills in connection with the Mahoning county vice investigation.

Ferguson said he had originally held up payment of the bills "because of a legal technicality as to whether they could be paid out of an appropriation granted by the emergency board July 1, due to the fact that they had been contracted for and services rendered before July 1."

The state auditor said the attorney general had agreed to make application to the state control board to transfer sufficient funds from his (Attorney General Herbert's) general appropriation fund to take care of the vouchers in question.

Earlier Herbert had threatened to carry the case to the supreme court in an attempt to force Ferguson to pay the bills, the majority of which were due special investigators who delved into the Youngstown and Mahoning county vice conditions.

POSTOFFICE WANTS PARCEL IDENTIFIED

And it won't reach him unless the sender, who mailed it prior to July 28, comes to the postoffice here, claims it and re-mails it. The parcel was mailed in Salem and was going to the University of Alabama, postal authorities know, for the postmark and that part of the otherwise obliterated address is clear. Postage and return address are missing.

The box was sent to the postmaster at the university who tried to locate the person to whom it was sent by posting a notice for men from Salem, Ohio, to call and inspect the box, but there was no response and the package was returned here last week.

Containing an assortment of candies, cookies, nuts, crackers, and other foodstuffs which are perishable, the parcel will have to be disposed of soon unless the sender claims it.

Fatalistic Humor Prevails Among Men In Transport

By JOHN M. MECKLIN
United Press Correspondent

AT SEA WITH A U. S. INVASION FORCE (Delayed)—There's a sort of fatalistic humor aboard a troop transport bound for invasion of enemy territory and the dangers that lie ahead are treated as a huge joke, albeit grim.

"I guess you don't really understand what this is all about until the bullets start whistling over your head," said Capt. Charles Goddard, 22, of Ada, Okla., a company commander who worked for the Oklahoma state department of labor before the war. "I know I don't and I think most of my men are the same way. The war still seems like something on the other side of the world."

The hundreds of men aboard this big combat transport—they dislike having her called a merchantman, even though she was a luxury liner in peacetime—live by a "You can't take it with you" philosophy. I heard of one soldier who won $5,000 in a crap game.

They talk about the same topics that are hashed over in your local bar, and there's none of the soul-searching discussions that might be expected. And they laugh at their danger.

It's funny to them, for instance, that their ship is one of the most vulnerable torpedo targets, her thin, virtually unarmored hull sheltering tons of high-test gasoline and heavy explosives that would send it to kingdom come in a matter of seconds if it were ignited.

Like Date With Dentist
Lt. (J.G.) J. A. O'Leary, 21, the son of Rep. James A. O'Leary, D. New York, told with grim relish how the transport's "sister ship got hit during the African campaign and went down in three minutes."

The landing ahead, far from being dreadful to contemplate, is more like a date with the dentist—an obligation that can't be dodged. But these men aren't throwing their lives away. They are taking sensible precautions. Almost everybody aboard, from colonels to privates, wears a knife in his belt, most of them fitted with brass-knuckle handles. Rifles, machine guns, sidearms and bayonets are in evidence everywhere. Men on duty wear their helmets and carry gas masks.

Although war correspondents technically are non-combatants, I asked Chief Gunner's Mate C. E. Nash, 38, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., whether I could draw some kind of weapon just in case.

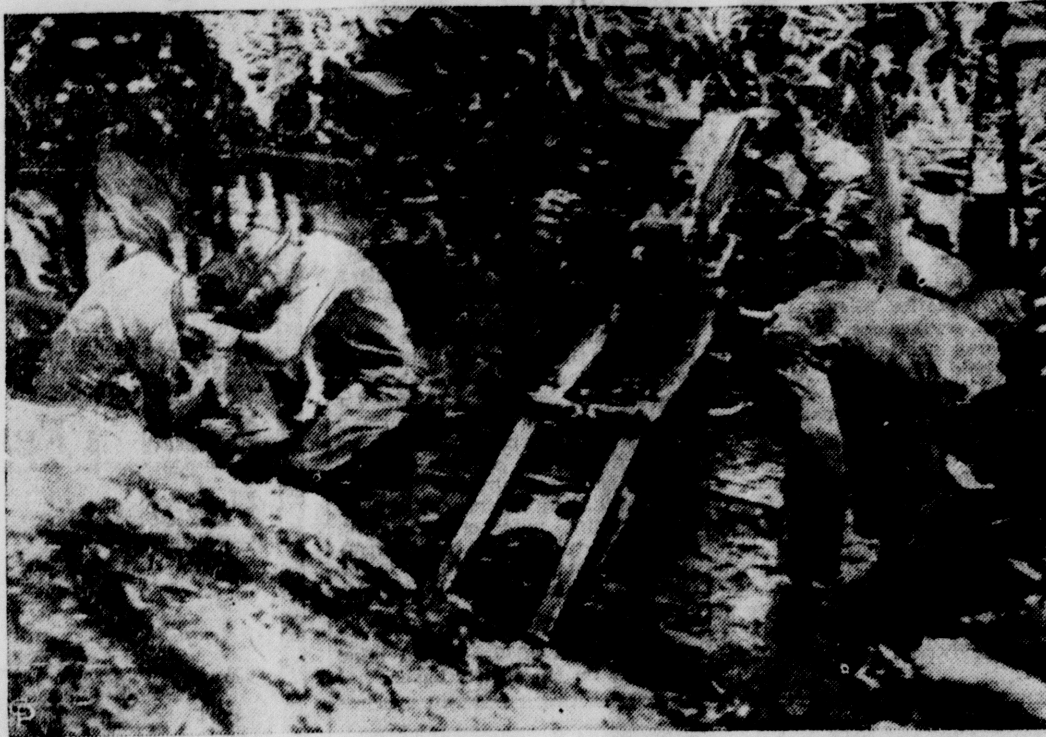

"Hell," he said, "you'll be able to pick up anything you want on the beach. Just help yourself from the first corpse you come to. He won't mind."

Several men have advised against wearing my "C" (for correspondent) armband when the landing comes.

"Enemy snipers will pick you out for a target sure as taxes," they said. "They shoot at anybody who looks at all distinctive and might be an officer."

Returns Home

Mrs. Clifford L. Mounts, who spent three months in California, has returned home. Her husband, Pfc. Clifford L. Mounts, has been transferred to another location.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mather accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Willard Thomas of Mill Creek to Mill Creek park, near Youngstown, Sunday and enjoyed a picnic supper.

Trained Since 1940

Although they have not had combat experience, a large portion of the men have been in the Army since the National Guard was called up in September, 1940, and all are experienced soldiers. Stephenson is convinced they are the best in the world.

"Colonel Steve," as he is known to his men, tried to work a minimum of three hours exercise into each day's schedule, despite the fact that the ship literally is jammed to the gunwales with men and equipment.

The troops practiced net climbing and debarcation into small boats, studied aircraft identification and gas decontamination, cleaned and oiled their weapons and performed other important duties, but time still hung heavily.

There were frequent movies and occasional talent shows on the afterdeck, where once there was a swimming pool. Lt. William Hale Dickinson, Jr., 29, of Amarillo, Tex., an Army chaplain, even started a ship's newspaper. It was called "The Trooper" and carried news items recorded in the ship's radio shack in addition to a gossip column and an occasional editorial by the editor, Pfc. Franklin J. Dean, 26, of Staten Island, N. Y.

As Capt. G. L. Robinson, 32, of Okmulgee, Okla., a company commander, remarked:

"Most of us feel life is going to get pretty tough after we get to where we're going, so right now we're taking things easy."

Ohio's July Bond Sales Above June

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—The War Finance Committee for Ohio reported today July series "E" War bond sales totaled $43,641,000, dispelling fears the new withholding tax might seriously affect sales.

The committee said the July figure represented an increase of approximately $3,000,000 over the $40,643,000 June total and added 51 of the state's 88 counties exceeded June sales.

Cuyahoga county again led the state in July with an $11,389,000 figure.

Other leading counties were: Franklin $2,173,000; Hamilton $4,520,000; Lucas $2,418,000; Mahoning $1,645,000; Montgomery $3,581,000; Stark $2,015,000; and Summit $3,579,000.

Total sales of series "E" bonds for the fiscal year 1942-43 were $506,146,000, compared to $190,262,000 for the fiscal year 1941-42.

Soldiers Expected Hedy Lamarr But Stimson Showed Up

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Secretary of War Stimson definitely doesn't look like Hedy Lamarr and as a result, he said today, provided a major disappointment to at least some troops on his recent tour of battle fronts.
He told a press conference that when he disembarked from my airplane in Newfoundland, I saw a number of young second lieutenants on the field, whose faces fell on inquiry I found there had been a rumor that Hedy Lamarr was coming on that plane.
In Iceland, he reported, he found exceptionally high morale among troops that had been stationed there for two years.
On a visit to hospitals in Algiers he talked with wounded men returning from the Sicilian campaign, and found "plenty of fight left in those men."
Turning to "personal report to the mothers, fathers, wives and sweethearts" of soldiers overseas, Stimson said:
"I now can report that no one need fear for the fighting ability or high morale of the men."
Stimson asserted the "most gratifying thing to me" was the development of the power of the American forces to the point where it had been sufficient to stop the most powerful military machine in history dead in its tracks and set it in reverse.
"Now is the time to increase pressure, building up military power in the air, on the ground, and on the sea. It would be criminal to relax. It would be a breach of faith if we should fail to share the determination of the men to fight this war in the shortest possible time."

RAF Praises Yanks For Ploesti Attack

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Aug. 6.—An RAF commentator today described the American Liberator raid on the Rumanian oil installation at Ploesti as "one of the greatest air achievements of the war."
The commentator, who represents the views of the British Air Force, declared the skill, courage and determination shown by the crewmen who flew the Liberators on the 2,400-mile route for a low-level attack on the installations last Sunday against the fiercest kind of opposition deserved rank with any feat accomplished in the air.
He added that estimates of the damage to the oil installations were not yet available but preliminary reports showed they had been given a "very hard knock" which was bound to be reflected in some degree on the German war effort.
The commentator, whose name may not be used, said the RAF would need "an hour or two more of darkness" each night before conditions were really favorable for the bombing of Berlin but he hastened to add he did not want this to be taken as a promise of heavy attacks against the Reich's capital as soon as the nights were longer.

Two County Farm Groups Plan to Visit Agnew Farm

Members of the Columbiana County Horticultural society and of the Columbiana-Mahoning County Vegetable growers association will attend the summer meeting of the Mahoning County Horticultural society at a twilight session next Tuesday night at the home of Frank Agnew, one mile south of Boardman. Members of the Potato Growers association also have been invited to attend.
Two Ohio State university speakers, Frank Beach and Earl Tussing, will address the group. One subject to be discussed will be "Government Restrictions." A feature of the meeting will be inspection of the 65-acre tract of the "Sebago" variety of potatoes, and of a 20-acre orchard.
The peach growers of Northern Columbiana county and Mahoning county areas will meet at the Agnew farm at the same time to discuss the marketing and sale of peaches. Agnew is president of the Horticultural society.
Approximately 65,000 U.S. merchant seamen are expected to be trained in 1943.

Ohioan Bags Nazi Plane During 300-Mile-an-Hour Dive

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Neither fire, bullets nor 10 Focke-Wulf planes could stop Tech. Sgt. Richard J. Riley of Lakewood, O., from getting an enemy plane during a savage air battle near Paris, the War department reported today.
During the peak of the battle, Sgt. Riley, radio operator on the Flying Fortress "Queen Bee," smelled smoke and discovered it was his own parachute and life preserver burning. He squirted the fire extinguisher over his shoulder and put out the fire, which had been caused by the explosion of a 20 mm incendiary shell in his compartment.
Two minutes later a bullet clipped the Ohioan's goggles off his head.
The enemy planes shot out one of the "Queen Bee's" engines and damaged one propeller, and the pilot decided to dive to within 50 feet of the ground to shake the Nazis.
On the way down—at 300 miles an hour—Sgt. Riley bagged one enemy plane, as did three other crew members. The bomber grazed the top of a haystack. Gas and oil tanks had been hit and were spilling their contents. Sgt. Riley reported at one time there were six inches of gasoline sloshing around in the bomb bay.
To add to the dangerous situation the Fortress was still carrying its bombs since the crew refused to drop them where they might kill French civilians. Finally the bomber reached the channel, the crew jettisoned the bombs in the sea and arrived at the English base safely.

AMERICANS SEIZE CONTROL OF MUNDIA

Occupation Comes Within 32 Days After Establishment of Beachhead

General Vandegrift's hint on new Allied offensive moves in the offing came as he returned to the South Pacific war theater from the United States, where he was decorated with the Congressional medal of honor and promoted from major general to lieutenant general.

General Vandegrift is the man who led U. S. Marines ashore at Guadalcanal just a year ago today. Now he will command the first amphibious corps in delivering fresh blows against Japan's invasion armies.

Japs Are Fearful

Along with the capture of Munda, good news came from the New Guinea front where field dispatches declared the big Japanese stronghold at Salamaua was so gravely menaced that the enemy launched repeated counter attacks against Allied troops advancing within five miles of the base.

A spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters said the enemy attacks were heavily repulsed and Allied fighters then swept forward to dislodge the Japanese from machine-gun posts.

Meanwhile, a Chinese army spokesman declared the Japanese, fearful of new air raids on Japan, were rushing aerial reinforcements for attacks on potential Allied "bomb Tokyo" bases in China.

The spokesman said at least 80 planes had arrived at one enemy air field in Anhwei province alone and that the Japanese were hurriedly enlarging their two main bases in Hupeh province.

PEACE CRIES FAN UNREST IN ITALY

New Italian Government Fails to Give Signs Of Evading War

Fascist party, was among 14 former high Fascists who were denounced on charges of fraud by a Rome tribunal, according to reports reaching here.

Details of the action were lacking, but according to information received at the Swiss-Italian frontier it was believed that these men were among the first persons caught in the new Italian government's attempt to investigate the holdings of former Fascist officials.

In connection with the investigation of the quickly-acquired wealth of high Fascists, the new government announced that transactions made after July 24 would be invalid—an effort to cancel fictitious sales by the Fascists to save their property.

The Corriere Della Sera of Milan reported all Italian newspaper offices were flooded with letters demanding a revision of the civil service ranks, to which appointments had been made exclusively on Fascist merits.

W. VIRGINIA FLOOD TOLL PLACED AT 15

SUTTON, W. Va., Aug. 6.—Rescuers searched today in the debris of a flood known to have claimed at least 15 lives from the bodies of six other persons believed to have perished as survivors told of harrowing escapes from high waters.

The property toll rose above $2,000,000 as the Kanawha river was swollen yesterday in central West Virginia to the greatest height in its history.

Eleven bodies were recovered within a 20-mile radius of Sutton, seat of agricultural Braxton county, while five members of a family were swept away by Isand creek and a mother and child lost their lives in Tanners creek near Gilmer on the Calhoun county line.

Navy on Patrol After Cleveland Disturbances

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—Another sailor-civilian street brawl—third here within 24 hours—occurred early today as Naval authorities established a shore patrol designed to prevent such disorders.

In the latest outbreak the sailor received knife wounds described as not serious. Both he and his adversary were held for investigation by police, who reported the stabbing took place in front of a West Side cafe where the two became involved in an argument on the war's conduct while drinking. The civilian was not hurt.

Plans for establishment of a Navy shore patrol were announced following the death of a civilian as a result of a fight with three coast guardsmen.

PUSH AXIS FORCES BACK IN SICILY

Allies Advance Several Miles as Enemy Falls Back Toward Messina

A communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said road and railway communications in Messina, the key to the dwindling Axis bridgehead in Sicily and only a 35-minute ferry ride from the Italian mainland at San Giovanni, was attacked by the heavy bombers with fighter escort.

Attack Ground Troops
"Medium bombers attacked road communications at Francavilla (north of Mt. Etna and 28 miles southwest of Messina) while light bombers attacked similar targets at Aderno (imperial enemy base on the Mt. Etna road 15 miles northwest of fallen Catania)," the communique said.

Fighter-bombers carried out repeated attacks on masses of enemy troops and cross roads areas, it was announced.

"Electrical installations on Sardinia were attacked during the day," the communique said. "Intruder aircraft operated over southern Italy during the night of Aug. 4/5."

"Last night our bombers attacked enemy troops and shipping in the neighborhood of Messina."

"From all these operations, eight of our aircraft are missing."

(The broadcast Italian communique belatedly admitted the evacuation of Catania, which the Allies announced yesterday had been captured.)

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

seemed to come into his own again, as the Duce lost favor with a disillusioned populace. Italians were looking to their king for leadership.

When Mussolini failed his country in the crisis which brought his downfall, Emanuele could have been the man of the hour. I believe that if he had mounted his charger and ridden through the streets of Rome as champion of his subjects, he would have been the hero of the country. But he passed the job to Badoglio, and stayed at home in his palace.

All this doesn't necessarily predicate the fall of the monarchy, of course. Still, one would think that Emanuele will be very lucky if he himself doesn't slip from his golden throne. If the monarchy weathers the present storm, it wouldn't be surprising to see Crown Prince Umberto take over from his father.

Umberto is 38—a tall, erect figure who is the Italian ideal of a soldier. He has had much training both in affairs of state and in military matters. He is married to beautiful Princess Maria Jose, sister of the king of the Belgians, and they have a son and four daughters.

There was a time when Italy wasn't overly pleased with Umberto. Those were the days when youthful indiscretions shocked the more sober minded of his father's subjects. The crown prince outgrew his penchant for the hot-spots, though, and developed both stability and capability. As a result, he has stood well with the public, and might make an acceptable king—if the monarchy lives.

A message for you...from 1953

(Today, John Jones is just an average American, wrestling with all the doubts and worries and problems that beset every one of us right now. But let's skip ahead 10 years. Let's look at John Jones then—and listen to him . . .)

"SOMETIMES I feel so good it almost scares me.
"This house—I wouldn't swap a shingle off its roof for any other house on earth. This little valley, with the pond down in the hollow at the back, is the spot I like best in all the world.
"And they're mine. I own 'em.

Nobody can take 'em away from me.
"I've got a little money coming in, regularly. Not much—but enough. And I tell you, when you can go to bed every night with nothing on your mind except the fun you're going to have tomorrow—that's as near Heaven as a man gets on this earth!

"It wasn't always so.
"Back in '43—that was our second year of war, when we were really getting into it—I needed cash. Taxes were tough, and then Ellen got sick. Like most everybody else, I was buying War Bonds through the Payroll Plan—and I figured on cashing some of them in. But sick as she was, it was Ellen who talked me out of it.
"Don't do it, John!" she said. "Please don't! For the first time in our lives, we're really saving money. It's wonderful to know that every single payday we have more money put aside! John, if we can only keep up this saving, think what it can mean! Maybe someday you won't have to work. Maybe we can own a home. And oh, how good it would feel to know that we need never worry about money when we're old!"

"Well, even after she got better, I stayed away from the weekly poker game—quit dropping a little cash at the hot spots now and then—gave up some of the things a man feels he has a right to. We made clothes do—cut out fancy foods. We didn't have as much fun for awhile but we paid our taxes and the doctor and—we didn't touch the War Bonds.
"We didn't touch the War Bonds then, or any other time. And I know this: The world wouldn't be such a swell place today if we had!"

REDS MAY CHASE PITTSBURGH OUT OF SECOND PLACE

Bucky Walters Pitches Six-Hitter as Cincinnati Beats Cubs, 4 to 1

BY TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer

The Cincinnati Reds, who have been blowing hot and cold all season, apparently are generating a full head of steam that may blow Pittsburgh out of second place in the National league and possibly prove very annoying to the first place St. Louis Cardinals.

Behind a masterful six-hit pitching performance by Bucky Walters, the Cincinnati Reds yesterday beat the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 1, and dropped the stumbling Brooklyn Dodgers from third to fourth. The Reds took over the third place position, only 2½ games behind the second place Pirates. In this spot they can profit regardless how the Pirates-Cards series, opening tonight in St. Louis, turns out. If the Cards win, the Reds gain on the Pirates. If Pittsburgh wins, the Reds take a step closer to first place.

With all other major league clubs idle, the rise of the Rhinelanders shared interest with Dolph Camilli's announcement that he had quit baseball. The former Brooklyn first baseman—traded to the New York Giants last Saturday—said he was "washed up" thus voluntarily ending an 11-year career in the majors with the Cubs, Phillies and Dodgers.

It may be only a coincidence, but the return to form of Walters seems to have inspired the Reds. They have won four of their last five starts and Bucky, the third baseman turned pitcher, has won two of them. If Johnny Vandermeer begins to win regularly, along with Elmer Riddle, Ray Starr and Walters the Reds will be very formidable. They already boast a snappy double play combination in Shortstop Eddie Miller and Second Baseman Lonnie Frey and are getting some timely hitting, especially from Eric Tipton and Ray Mueller.

Camilli's Baseball Retirement to Cost Him $1000 a Week

BY SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Dolph Camilli's back-to-the-farm movement is going to cost him $1,000 a week for the next eight weeks, and even an eminent agriculturist like Dolph will admit that "ain't hay."

But not even that $8,000—the remainder of his salary for 1943 if he'd change his mind about retiring from baseball—is enough to convince the 36-year-old Laytonville, La., farmer that he's not all washed up as a ball player and ready for the life of a country gentleman on his 1,750 acres.

About all Dolph would have had to do to get that eight G's for the last eight weeks of the season would be to show up at the Polo grounds and let Giants' President Horace Stoneham hand him a paycheck every two weeks.

So all baseball was wondering today if maybe Dolph's 18 years in the game—11 of them in the National league with Chicago, Philadelphia and Brooklyn, before being traded to the Giants last Saturday—had done something to him at last. But Camilli says he knows exactly what he's doing.

He realizes so well that he's all through as a ball player that he wouldn't have come back at all this season if it hadn't been for the soft, persuasive speech of Branch Rickey, who talked him into it last winter.

"I wanted to quit then," Dolph said today as he packed his bags and got the family ready for the cross-country ride. "Then Mr. Rickey saw me and I got the idea that I owed it to baseball to give it another try. Playing material was scarce and getting scarcer and I thought baseball needed help. So I changed my mind."

"I feel perfectly okay, but my reflexes are a little slower. Guess it's those 36 years catching up to me."

Mt. Union Still Hopeful Of Having Football Team

ALLIANCE, Aug. 6.—Mount Union college is still hopeful of having a varsity football team this year, although it is definitely known members of the college Army Air Corps cadet unit will not be available because the War department has definitely banned soldier-student intercollegiate athletic participation.

Robert D. Wright, Mount Union athletic director, said today the college will not announce a definite intercollegiate athletic policy until the fall enrollment has been completed, affording a definite line on available manpower.

DALLAS—The Southwestern conference has done its part in contributing to the war effort.

Few of last year's athletics will be on hand and there will be 21 members of the athletic departments missing when footballs start flying in September.

Three schools lost their head football coaches—two of them after last season. George Cole left Arkansas and Frank Kimbrough departed from Baylor, both entering the service. Matty Bell of Southern Methodist joined the navy before the 1942 season opened.

Arkansas has lost two head football coaches since the war started. Fred Thomsen entered the army prior to the start of the 1942 campaign and was succeeded by Cole, who now has been succeeded by John Tomlin.

Texas, Texas Christian, Texas A. and M. and Rice have the same head coaches—D. X. Bible at Texas, Leo Meyer at T. C. U., Homer Norton at A. and M. and Jess Neely at Rice.

Southern Methodist has been the heaviest loser to the armed service as six members of its athletic staff are on Uncle Sam's payroll. James Stewart succeeded Matty Bell as head football coach.

Said Mel Ott to Camilli, "Our team may look silly . . . And falling apart at the seams, . . . But Medwick and you are a pair who will do . . . To get us right back on the beam." . . . Answered Dolph, "I ain't hitting and soon I'd be sitting . . . On the splintery Polo grounds bench." . . . For the rest of the year I'll pitch hay to the steers . . . On my big California-i-a (x) ranch." . . . (X-stretching for a high one)

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

Missouri's Don Faurot will be the new football coach at the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school . . . the Madison Square Garden basketball season will open Dec. 14 and Ned Irish is making plans for 16 double-headers, exclusive of tournaments . . . query to Ray Dumont; How's that Navy ruling limiting travel going to affect your national semipro baseball tournament? . . . at least four Georgia Gridders at Duke claim were all wet in saying they won't play for the Blue Devils . . .

SERVICE DEPT.

Service teams in the Fort Smith, Ark., Baseball association are providing better baseball than the Class "C" Western association ever provided, according to Sports Scribe Carl Bell . . . Lieut. Pete Appleton, who was rated as an oldtimer when he left the Browns for the Navy, found enough strength in his arm to fan 13 batters when he pitched for the Quonset, R. CONCLUSION

Max Schmeling once told Jack Conway, Jack Sharkey's legal adviser, that he had a lot of dough invested in Hamburg apartment houses . . . right now Max's apartments probably look about the way Max did after Joe Louis bombed him.

INDIANS TO FACE BROWNS TONIGHT

Tribe Meets Old Foe as 25-Game Home Series Gets Under Way

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—The Cleveland Indians open a 25-game home stand tonight with the club which has beaten them more times this season than any other American league opponent—the seventh place St. Louis Browns.

Luke Sewell's Browns have won nine of 15 encounters with the Tribe this year, and tonight's pitching foe will be the ace jinx of them all—Knuckleballer Johnny Niggeling. The six-foot veteran whipped the Indians four times last season with no casualties to his own record and has won and lost one this year.

Allie Reynolds, Manager Lou Boudreau's choice for tonight's mound chores, will be out for his fifth victory against six defeats. Now in fifth place, the Indians are just three and a half games out of second place, 11½ back of the pace setting New York Yankees.

SPRINGFIELD WINS BASEBALL TOURNEY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 6.—The 1943 Ohio American Legion Junior baseball championship rested with Springfield today following its 5 to 2 victory over the highly-touted Cleveland club in yesterday's finals.

It was the lake citizens' second defeat by the surprising Springfield nine. In an earlier round the new champions drubbed the Clevelanders 2 to 0. Other Springfield tourney victims were Steubenville and Zanesville.

Cincinnati, 1942 champion, handed the 1943 titlist its only loss, a 2 to 0 defeat in the Monday opener.
